Mid-Century News

Editorially Speaking

The newspaper world is a world of its own; yet it plays a vital part in the affairs of the world at the Mid-Century. On a smaller scale, Julia Richman, like many a newspaper, has made for itself an important place in the life of our community. Throughout the world, the spotlight is focussed on events of international significance. National elections, labor disputes, the Cold War, rehabilitation of devastated areas, the future of the U. N. and control of atomic energy are matters of foremost importance. In its news stories and editorials a newspaper mirrors the happenings in the world. The yearbook also reflects the happenings in our high school world. For this reason, the Staff has chosen as the theme of the June 1950 Spotlight, "Mid-Century News."

In the following pages are recorded events of special importance to the seniors of this Mid-Century class. You will find in words and pictures information about the principal members of the administration and faculty, your classmates, the various organizations to which you have belonged and momentous and trivial happenings around the school.

As you turn the pages, you will read between the lines to recall a thousand details characteristic of your life in 1950: the short hair cut, straight skirts, Capezio slippers, "Some Enchanted Evening," the water shortage, the coal strike, history Regents, the Red Letter Day show and the Senior Prom. You will remember how in 1950 television antennae sprouted from the roofs of apartment buildings.

You will remember your busy days as a senior. According to a Spotlight poll of J.R.H.S. seniors, the typical school day for the Mid-Century girl is as follows: six hours attending classes, twenty minutes standing in line for lunch, ten minutes eating, one hour and a half travelling back and forth by bus and subway, two hours extra-curricular activities, thirty minutes eating supper, half an hour washing dishes, four hours history homework, two hours answering telephone calls, one hour studying Hamlet, trigonometry, first aid, chemistry and all other subjects, one hour watching television, one hour setting hair and taking a shower and finally four hours of uninterrupted slumber.

Our memories of high school include many happy days as well as serious ones. We have even experienced some tragedies which at the time loomed very large. Nevertheless, all of us are aware of the fact that as school-girls in the United States of America we are among the most fortunate young people in the world of today. We are grateful for the opportunity of attending a fine, democratic high school where the faculty share our work and our play and where we may develop into responsible citizens.

Publisher

Miss Marion D. Jewell, Principal

Miss Marion D. Jewell, Publisher of "Mid-Century News," came to Julia Richman in 1941. A graduate of Schenectady High School and Cornell University, with graduate work in social studies and public law at Columbia University, she taught in Cambridge, New York; Utica; Atlantic City, New Jersey; and Boys High School, Brooklyn and served as head of the social studies department at Washington Irving. Miss Jewell enjoys music, is interested in antiques and has travelled extensively abroad.

Keenly interested in world affairs, Miss Jewell has faith in the processes of Democracy and in the ability of human beings to solve the problems confronting us. She says: "The right kind of education in our Democracy will send out young people with the training and qualities that will speed the approach of the world we want."

My dear Colleagues of the "Mid-Century News" . . .

The world in 1950 seems very different from the world of 1900, not only in material and technological ways but also in political, social, economic and moral standards. Only two generations separate them, but the differences in the two eras are more startling and revolutionary than the differences that developed in the nineteen centuries that preceded.

Last week, on her one hundredth birthday, a woman flew from California to New York. In her lifetime she had seen the beginning of the railroad, telegraph, telephone, automobile, submarine, aeroplane, radio and television, hydro-electric power development, and the terrifying and thrilling potentialities of the atom and hydrogen bombs. She had seen nations and empires disappear. She had seen a revolution in the status of women and in the concept of government organization and responsibility.

In 1950, creative American talent is hailed throughout the world in every field—history, politics, science, fiction, poetry, biography, drama, business, industry, and the professions. In 1900, the cultural backwardness of America was still sending many of our intellectuals and artists abroad where their talents were stimulated and developed by a more favorable climate of appreciation.

The organization of business, of labor, of society today is very different from that of 1900. The complex organization of government to meet its increased activities and responsibilities is almost beyond the comprehension of the average citizen. Nations and empires, that in 1900 seemed to possess an inherent strength that was unassailable, have disappeared. Changes in morals and manners, and in our ethical and spiritual values, are both alarming and inspiring. We are strengthening our democracy by the extension of civil, political and social privileges to those of our citizens hitherto denied them, but we are building, too, a bureaucratic system in our Federal Government that tends to limit our democratic practices.

A great war always speeds up technological and material changes. It also raises emotions to a pitch that cannot be sustained permanently. Adaptation to the changes and return to emotional control are difficult. Essential values for living and high standards of conduct seem to have been completely altered—and often lowered. It is the task of education to teach us that the principles of justice, of truth and honor, of integrity and respect for human beings, and of belief in the reality of a spiritual life, are eternal.

It is your task to help your generation and succeeding ones to harmonize the changing mode of life that man's genius has brought about, with these fundamental truths.

Affectionately yours,

Marion D Jewell

Co-ordinating Editors

Miss Hughes, Miss Howell, Miss Jewell, Miss Roulston, Mrs. Baker, Miss Goldberg.

Co-ordinating editors assist the publisher in determining policies, administering the business of the various divisions and co-ordinating the activities of the organization.

In our "Mid-Century News" the co-ordinating editors are the four Heads of Schools. They help solve the personal problems of the students and supervise the work of the four schools: Lower School, terms one through four; Upper School, terms five through eight; Country School or honor school; and Co-operative School or work experience school. The Co-operative School has been a part of Julia Richman almost from the time the school was founded; the Country School was established in 1937.

At present, the head of Country School is Mrs. Kathleen Baker, who took over the position at the beginning of the term. Miss Anna Goldberg has been head of Upper School for four years. Miss Blanche Howell has headed the Lower School for four years. Miss Marion Hughes has been head of the Co-operative School for one year. Miss Florence Roulston is assistant to Miss Jewell as Head of Guidance. Under the leadership of these co-ordinating editors the year 1949-50 has been a successful one for the "Mid-Century News."

Managing Editors

Back: Miss Van Buskirk, Mr. Smerling, Mr. Spector, Miss Ruddy, Miss Topp, Miss Conroy, Dr. Wernick, Miss Collins, Mr. Feifer, Mr. Weintraub. Front: Mr. Readyoff, Miss Schmidt, Mr. Rodgers. Not photographed: Miss Fueslein.

The managing editors administer the business of their departments, working with their colleagues to produce a first-class publication.

The heads of the fourteen departments in Julia Richman direct the scholastic work of the school. They supervise classroom work and in cooperation with faculty members develop courses of study, prepare and administer tests and carry on classes and extra-curricular activities.

The fourteen department chairmen are: accounting and business practice, Mr. Nathan Spector; chemistry and physics, Mr. Nathan Feifer; English, Mr. Frank Smerling; fine arts, Miss Leonie Fueslein; health education, Miss Gladys Schmidt; Latin, Miss Annie Van Buskirk; mathematics, Dr. William Wernick; modern languages, Miss Helen Collins; music, Mr. David Rodgers; general science and biology, Miss Emily Topp; secretarial studies, Mr. Thomas Readyoff; social studies, Mr. Sidney Weintraub; speech, Miss Muriel Ruddy; and textile arts, Miss Gertrude Conroy.

Editorial Staff

Top: Irma Genzen, Audrey Tuitt, Ruth Steinthal, Kay Wellish
Bottom: Margaret Remick, Clarice Weisel, Patricia Farnik

The editors of "Mid-Century News" are the Spotlight staff, who edit the senior yearbook, the record of four years spent at Julia Richman High School. They are: Irma Genzen, editor-in-chief; Audrey B. Tuitt, managing editor; Ruth Steinthal, business manager; Kay Wellish, literary editor; Patricia Farnik and Clarice Weisel, assistant literary editors; Margaret Remick, art editor. Advisers to the editors are Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett and Miss Theda Walther.

Assistant editors who have worked with the editors in the difficult task of compiling the material are Marilyn King, Lennie Resnek and Pauline Sonnenblick. Other staff members are Betty Blau, Abby Blum, Jeanette Gottlieb, Rita Klein, Helen Kristt and Lula Roach.

Reporters, who gathered material for the senior section of the yearbook, are the Spotlight representatives. They are: Betty Blau, Mary Borg, Eleanor Cento, Connie Celentano, Mary Dickens, Joan Falk, Patricia Farnik, Joan Gilmore, Consuelo Loureiro, Calogera Messina, Laura Paturzo, Anna Solimando, Barbara Thornton, Beatrice Valdez, Barbara Wehrmann, and Clarice Weisel.

Our linotype operators (typists) are Lorraine Brockman, Helen Desch and Gloria Longval.

RICHMAN NEWS

Standing: Laura Bruckheimer, Rima Robbins, Salvina Occhipinti, Yvonne de Marchena, Josephine Pinnola, Miss Rutherford, Georgia Lopez, Renata Bindiger
Seated: Sybil Gurock (Editor), Sandra Rosenberg, Cynthia Kutner, Sue Kent

The Richman News is the school newspaper. It is published seven times a term by students who have taken journalism. The paper reports the important events that have taken place in the school plus many interesting and humorous features. It is entirely written, planned, and edited by the students themselves.

"I can't find the dummy!" "Does this picture bleed at the top and bottom?" "No, that's going in a montage!" "Where are my contracts?" "Mrs. B., how many characters per pica?" "Gee, it's 5:30 P.M. and we're still here." These are well-worn phrases familiar to the Spotlight staff as they struggle to meet the deadline.

BLUEBIRD

Seated: Mr. Barmack, Paulyn Lesser, Elena Ottolenghi, Froma Inselbuch (Editor), Sue Hersch, Marcella Kohn, Mrs. Goldman.

Bluebird is the literary-art magazine, which is published annually. The staff consists of members chosen by the editorial seven English class. It affords an opportunity for girls, talented in art or creative writing, to display their gifts to the school, and for the staff members to learn the process of magazine publication.

A Senior's Day

8:50 . . . We beg your hearing patiently— 9:30 . . . Speak the speech I pray you— 10:12 . . . What fools these mortals be! 10:53 . . . O, What a rogue and peasant slave am I! 11:34 . . . Now Hercules be thy speed—12:16 . . . Chewing the food of sweet and bitter fancy— 12:58 . . . I almost die for food! Let me have it. 1:40 . . . Dear Seniors,

All through your high school life at Julia Richman you received the benefits of your General Organization. It helped make your school more enjoyable, more interesting, and sponsored a variety of diversified activities and school publications. The G.O. does not mean complete student self-government, but rather a co-operative plan between pupil and teacher, aiming for a maximum amount of responsibility for the student body.

The G.O. has given you wonderful times. Think of the Carnival and Country Fairs. It was great fun wearing what you wished, going where you pleased for a day. Think of the publicity shows you've seen; the dances you've attended; the clubs you've belonged to. The leaders club, the dance club, and skaters club are just a few. The Richman News, Bluebird, the Arista and Agatha are some of the student activities we've supported.

For four years the G.O. has been behind you and now that you're leaving we would like to thank you for the support you've given us and to wish you happiness and success in the future.

Sincerely yours,
G.O. Officers

STUDENT COURT

Standing: Annie Lew, Helen Dorner, Mary Kirincic
Seated: Rosa Fox (Chief Justice)
Not photographed: Miss Connolly

The Student Court is a democratic organization run by the students to help the students, promising justice to all, fostering student government and maintaining order. The officers are Chief Justice, Associate Chief Justice and Scribe. The Court handles cases of girls who have violated the school rules by smoking, running, cutting classes, and so forth.

AUNT JULIAS

First Row: Harriet Saver, Josephine Ryan, Ann Rogan, Amy Pollner
Third Row: Ida Stenson, Sandra Rosenberg, Evelyn Fischer, Gertrude Vetri

The Aunt Julias are a group of seniors who act as big sisters for the freshmen and new third-termers. One girl is assigned to each section and works with it all term. The Aunt Julias have a Strangers' Tea each term to welcome girls who have entered Julia Richman from other states and countries.

PERSONALITY

Standing: Miss O'Haire
Seated: Rosemarie Barbiere, Miss Berg, Mr. Palestin

The Personality Committee is headed by Miss Bernice Berg, ably assisted by Mr. Seymour Palestin and Miss O'Haire. The Committee is an organization sponsored by the G.O. The student personality head is Rosemarie Barbiere. Their duties are to send out personality circulars during the term and to sponsor assemblies and dances.

ARISTA

Standing: Louise Rockey, Hannah Halberstam, Netty Schreiber (President)
Seated: Mrs. Lefkowitz, Florence Mishkin

The Arista Honor Society consists of a group of girls who have fulfilled certain qualifications of scholarship, service and character. It is our aim, under the able leadership of Mrs. Ruth Lefkowitz, to stimulate members towards an attempt to better the world we live in. The Arista tutoring service is available to all Richman girls who ask for it.

HONOR SOCIETY "A" WEEK

Seated: Mary Tracosas, Joan Gunshinan (President), Miss Donovan, Patricia Farnik, Lucy Gioia
Standing: Katherine Dall, Anne Lettich, Margaret Marchese, Cynthia Quarto

The bronze statue presented to Julia Richman High School by Tiffany and Company for the Co-operative girls who have given valuable service is the background for the Co-operative Honor Society girls.

These girls have the idea of service in addition to the high ideals of scholarship and responsibility.

HONOR SOCIETY "B" WEEK

Seated: Mary Zimmer, Margaret Jordan (President), Miss Donovan, Marie De Franco, Barbara Curtis, Frances Clark
Standing: Brunhilde Rahloff, Florence Mackey, Catherine Cammerata, Norma Johnson, Mary Ann Edwards, Mary Hyland

Students of the Co-operative School who are in terms six through eight may become candidates for membership in the Honor Society. To become a member a girl must have a good scholastic rating, a good mark in Industry and a completed health record. She is accepted as a member only after an interview for personality.

I.Q. SQUAD

Standing: Miss Worstell, Harriet Saver
Seated: Louise Rockey, Hannah Halberstam, Nancy Walzer, Evelyn Fischer, Netty Schreiber

Every newcomer to Julia Richman is required to take an I.Q. test. The members of the I.Q. Squad are responsible for giving instructions and keeping the girls relaxed so they may receive accurate ratings on the test. They also take charge of marking and recording the results. All of this is done under the supervision of Miss Helen Worstell.

PROGRAM SQUAD

Standing: Natasha Lisansky, Miss Mullany, Miss Hattorff, Elena Ottolenghi, Mrs. Banet, Marion Ives, Agnes Szekely
Seated: Barbara Oppenheimer, Mrs. Shelley

The Program Squad aids the faculty members in making new programs, recording program changes, and keeping our blackboard records up to date. The efficiency and hard work of these girls make possible the rapid reorganization of the school twice each year. The squad is headed by a captain who supervises the squad and enlists new members.

TRAFFIC SQUAD

Standing: Berta Poza (Head Captain), Marion Wu, Miss Himmelstein, Inge Zeige
Seated: Diane Glasscheib, Doris Axman

The main duty of the Traffic Squad is to regulate the traffic of the school by appointing and supervising marshals at the doors, stairways and exits. The squad also provides ushers for all important functions such as plays, special assemblies, movies and graduation. Traffic captains supervise all these duties.

Senior Officers

"I don't know how the next world war will be fought, but the one after that will be fought with sticks" is a dynamic statement by one of the greatest scientists, Albert Einstein. Einstein foresees another world war; but does there have to be one? If this world is to survive, it must be shaken to its senses and come down from its high pedestal before the atom and hydrogen bombs bring it down.

We must not throw our heads up and proclaim our strength saying, "If the other nations won't follow our way of thinking, we will threaten them." Let us look not for the worst points in a country's social, political, and economic system, but for the finer sides; let us trust the other nations. Let us use atomic energy to improve the standard of living and not to destroy the world.

When the nations of the world unite and lose their fears and suspicions of each other and begin to work in harmony to improve each other's standard of living instead of working alone to destroy each other, we shall take a deep sigh of relief and say, "The century hasn't turned for the last time."

—Daisy Abelson

Business Managers

SENIOR SECTION TEACHERS

Back: Mrs. Lehman, Mrs. Hoffman, Miss Crouse, Miss Donovan, Miss McCarthy, Mrs. Mandelbaum, Mrs. Herskowitz, Mrs. Finnegan
Front: Mr. Wertheimer, Miss Sonnenthal, Mrs. Faerber
Not Photographed: Miss Biggs, Mrs. Lefkowitz, Mr. Wachs

Preparing seven hundred students for graduation is a large-scale business operation. Section teachers are the business managers who see that each girl has the necessary credits for graduation, college entrance or business employment. They are also personal counselors and friends.

COUNTRY SCHOOL OFFICERS

Standing: Jeannette Gottlieb, Amy Pollner, Cynthia Kutner (President)
Seated: Mrs. Baker

The Country School was organized thirteen years ago. Its purpose is to achieve high scholarship, service and good character. This term the Country School saw the play "The Devil's Disciple" for the theatre party. Mrs. Kathleen Baker is adviser and head of the school.

JULIA RICHMAN BANK

Miss Rosenthal, Marie Berardi, Mary Kirincic (President), Elsa Neumann, Marianne Dunzer, Helen Bayer, Barbara Cassano, Theresa Volpini, Gloria Hart, Teresa Petrocelli

The main purpose of the Julia Richman Bank is to train depositors in habits of regular saving, not once a term, but once a week or more often. However, another aim is to promote training of the bank workers not only in bookkeeping but in tests that they must pass in honesty, loyalty, and co-operation as good citizens.

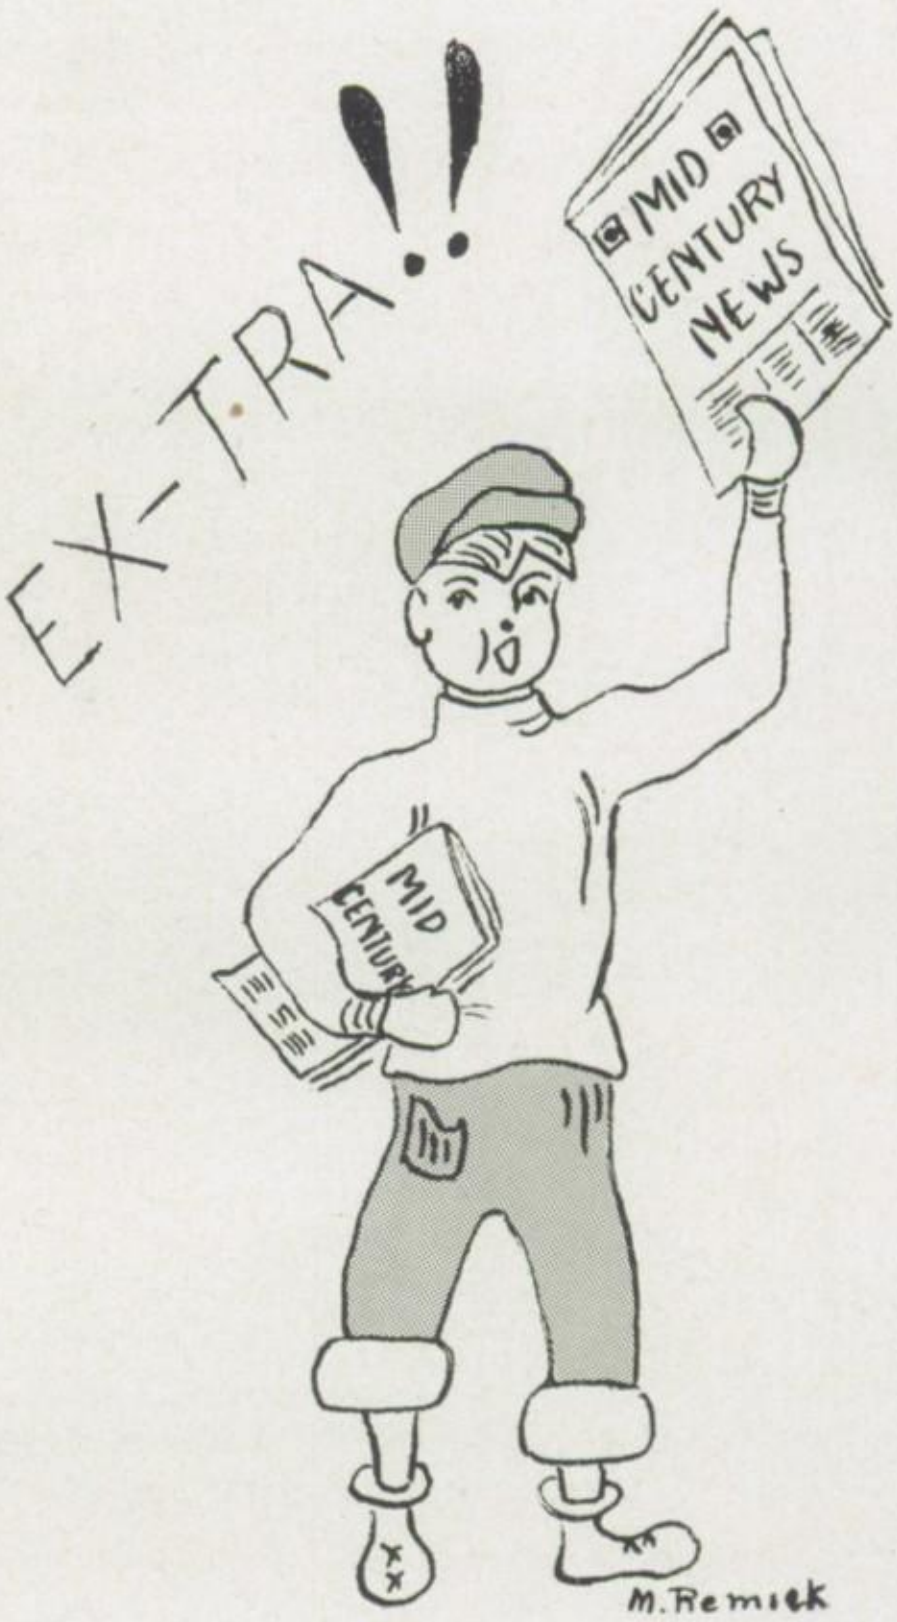
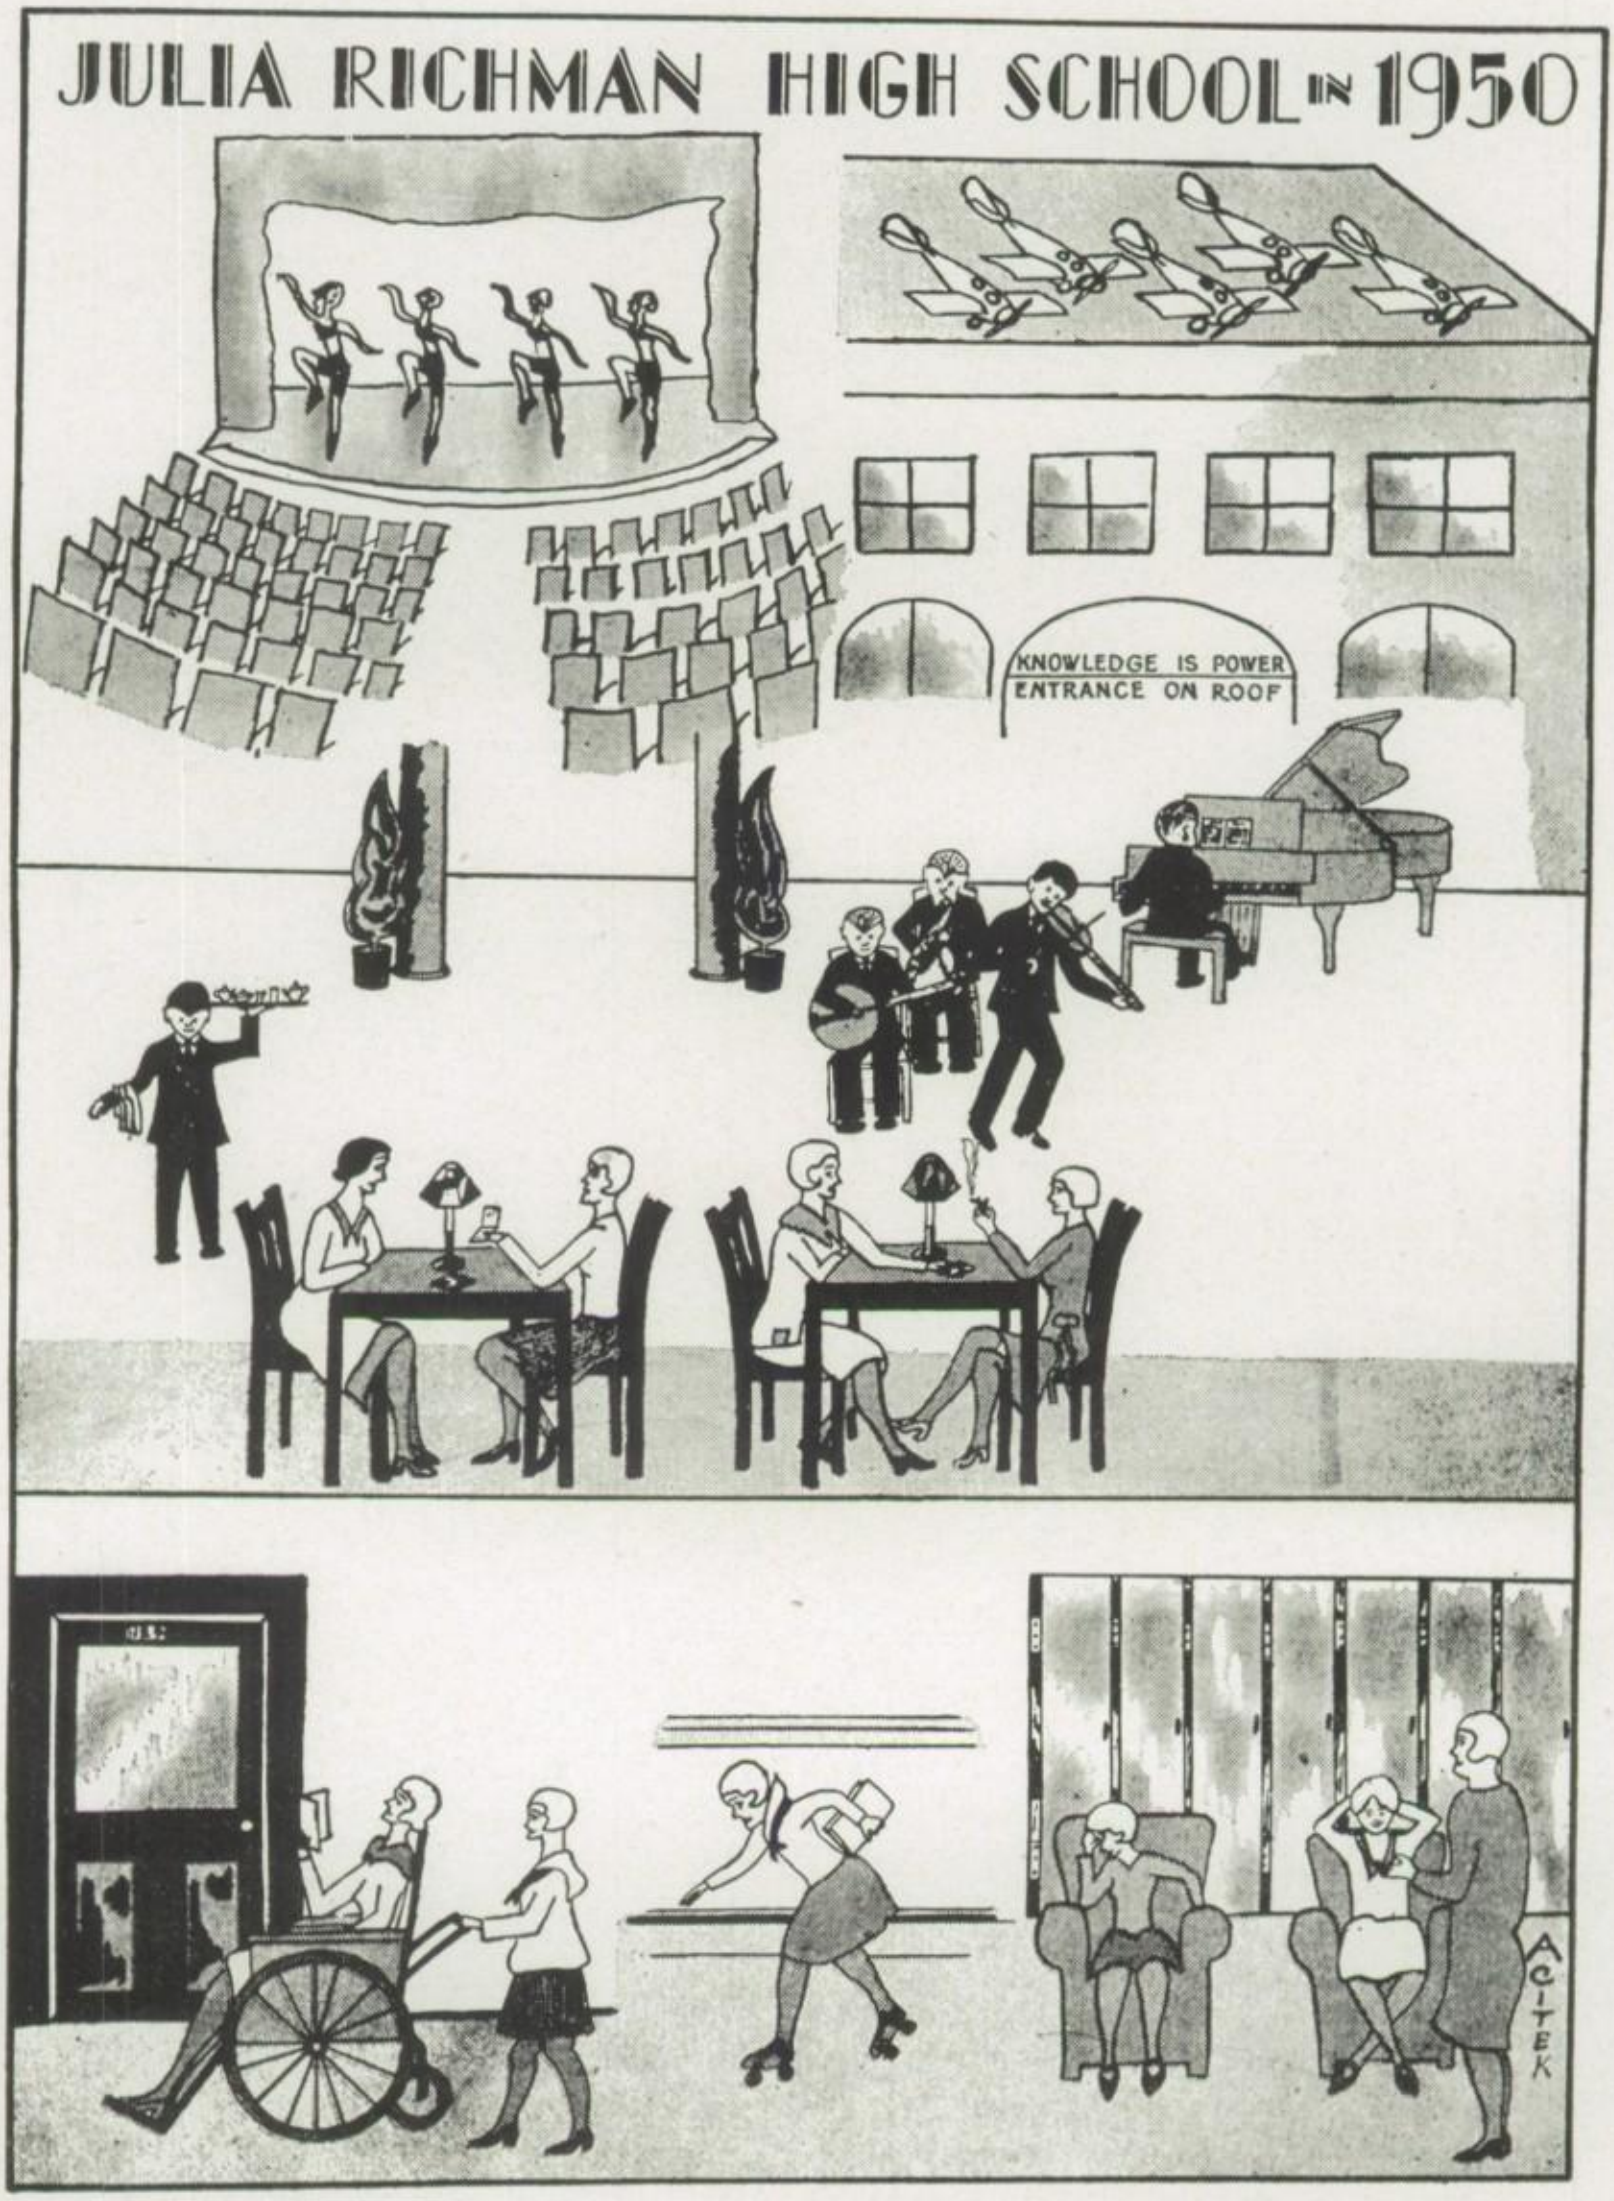
Features





In 1930 the Spotlight staff with their wonderful powers of clairvoyance wiped off their crystal ball to get a peek at the far-off future, 1950. Alas, the crystal ball must have been dirty, for unfortunately most of the predictions haven't come true.

Our predecessors predicted for us airplane transportation with a private landing field on the roof, but most of us are still "strap hangers" and the morning jab we get in the ribs from some fellow commuter is a far cry from exclusive air travel. It was also foretold that senior privileges would include private wheelchairs with willing freshmen to propel the "aristocracy" of Richman. But unless one breaks an arm or leg, the only wheel chairs the Mid-Century Julia will ever see will be in some far-off dream world. No there are no armchairs in classrooms yet, and no men waiters in the cafeteria. And we don't roller skate to classes. Instead, we employ the characteristic shuffle of most overburdened students.

But we, who haven't learned to profit from the example of those worthy ones who came before us, have decided to do a little fortune telling of our own.

It is inevitable that the Hydrogen bomb will leave its stamp on the world in some form or other and why not hydrogen-manufactured energy pills for that seventh period lag? Perhaps pills will be available in convenient ten cent or economical fifty cent packages. Of course, all classes will be conducted by T. V. and fully illustrated by movies accompanying the lectures. History, for example, could thus be seen in actuality as well as in the mind.

The infirmary of 1970 will become revolutionized too, for '70 will see handsome internes for each girl, five as senior privileges, infirmary room bedecked with flowers, strewn with magazines and a radio by every bed.

Our optimistic souls fervently hope this will be the case. But probably in 1970 a group of weary seniors will sit around a table and commence hopefully, "We predict . . ."

Sports in Review

A varied program of health education is offered in Julia Richman: first aid, hygiene, home nursing, gymnastics, games, swimming, dancing and other recreational activities.

Each term's work in physical training is divided into three sections: exercises, dancing and games. After developing game skills and practicing the games, girls take part in tournaments to determine the best teams in punchball, volleyball and basketball.

Girls of outstanding ability may serve as leaders. The requirements for Leaders Club are: ninety per cent in gym, a seventy-five per cent average and membership in the G.O. Leaders act as assistants to teachers by checking attendance, keeping the scores of games and teaching certain techniques to their students. They can be recognized in the gymnasium by their black gym suits and white blouses.

The health education department does all it can to keep the girls of Julia Richman in good physical condition. The importance of attaining a good health record is stressed. Medical notes and eye notes are required once a year and a dental note every term.

The physiological side of health education includes the required courses in hygiene, home nursing and first aid. In these classes students are taught the conditions of the body in health and sickness. Instructions are given as to the procedures to be taken to guard against sickness and what to do if it does strike. All eighth termers must pass an examination to show that they know the essentials of first aid.

On the lighter side, the department provides an entertainment program. Two of the more popular performances given in recent terms were: "Alice in Waterland," a water ballet, and "Julia in the Wings," a musical variety show with dancing, songs and specialty acts.

Members of the Modern Dance group perform in the assembly and in school shows such as the G.O. Publicity Show and the Red Letter Day Show.

Other popular activities not directly sponsored by the health education department are the Arista-Agatha versus Faculty volleyball game and Mr. Geist's sports clubs: hiking club, skating club, bicycle club, and Youth Hostel, Chapter two. On January 20, 1950, the skating club made a broadcast over WNYC on "Sports at Richman."

All these activities at Julia Richman help to make it possible for the graduate of 1950 to achieve the aim of the school: to become "healthy, intelligent, economically able, social minded, charming and idealistic."

Section 8-5

From Mrs. Lehman and 8-1

Each one of us has toiled
Four long and weary years
And looks back on the memories
As laughter mixed with tears.
We think of all the hurdles
Which together we have scaled:
The homework and the cramming
And the tests that we have failed,
Dental notes and hygiene,
(Born well and well born too)
How we learned in Social Training
What to say and what to do.
But that is all behind us
And frivolous days are fled.
We fret about the U.N.
And tourniquets instead.
Yet we wear our Senior hats
With a very jaunty air;
Curled about our lips
Is a smile of savoir-faire.
Yes, we've come a long way;
Being comrades made it fun.
Forty voices chorus—
"Farewell from us—8-1."

TO THE GIRLS OF SECTION 8x2B

Laughing, yelling seniors in the February snow;
Happy and light hearted as the March winds blow;
Gloomy and dejected in April—and so broke;
Report cards and Medicals . . .
Life is not a joke.

Will they fail? Or will they pass? makes an anxious May.
But—
Laughing, tearful seniors come Graduation day.

CONGRATULATIONS FROM 8x1B

To those yet to graduate, we, the graduating class of 8x1B leave treasurers unknown and the thrill of graduation day.

To those now graduating we leave pleasant memories to linger always in their thoughts and a reminder that life is now opening its doorways to the outer world. All our experiences were just a preparation for those we've yet to meet.

To all the teachers, heads of schools and departments, who made our lives more pleasant with their helpful understanding and patient ways, we leave our thanks and our memories—for they have left memorable, unforgettable years of experience in our hearts.

Our thanks go to our coordinators for their endless work in securing jobs for us and leading us on our way to be "THE WOMEN OF THE FUTURE."

We leave Julia Richman sadly, but content with our learning, for the BEST YEARS OF OUR LIVES WERE SPENT HERE.

To the Class of June 1950 we dedicate this little ditty:

"We send our love and luck to all,
To fat and slim and short and tall;
We know that you'll remember us,
So we won't make too big a fuss."

The Julia Richman Song

Hail to the school that floats the banner blue
Hail to the school with standards high and true
Our service, love and loyalty to you,
Julia Richman High, Julia Richman High!

We'll "build our lives into the city wall"
So may our days of usefulness recall
The one whose name and spirit guide us all
Julia Richman High, Julia Richman High!

Our hearts are young, our lives still at the spring,
But as the years their rapid flight shall wing,
Oh, still of you with joyful praise we'll sing,
Julia Richman High, Julia Richman High!

Very truly yours

To Mr. Harold L. Wertheimer and All Our Teachers

From 8X1A

Sincere thanks and genuine appreciation for their help and trust are in the hearts of all of us. The gratitude which we offer to them is but a small share of the richly deserved tribute we would pay them.

The Farewell Song is sung by the seniors at the end of the graduation exercises. The melody comes from an old German lullaby and the words were written by Mr. David Rodgers, head of the music department.

Farewell, farewell, our Alma Mater dear
The parting time is near
Thy standards high have shown us the way
To a brighter, happier day.

From you we learned of noble deeds
Of sacrifice for human needs
Now to this world thy message we will tell
Julia Richman High, Farewell.

Farewell

As the final story in "Mid-Century News" we bid farewell to Julia Richman High School. Leaving the auditorium for the last time we recall the many happy moments spent there. We remember clearly our first assemblies at Richman, when we were welcomed by Miss Jewell, other faculty members and the G.O. officers.

Other memorable events have been the G.O. publicity show, Red Letter Day, the morning when, proudly wearing our senior hats, we occupied the first rows in assembly, and—most important—when, amid a whirl of white dresses, we received our diplomas.

Now we leave the auditorium to the incoming freshmen, for one day they too will sit in the front rows.
